About the Honorees:

Lori Conley, Emily's Place. She has served as CEO of Emily's Place for nine years. Her own personal experiences have aided in the success she has brought to the ministry. Lori grew up in a similar program living in a children's home for nine years and then transitioned into foster care during her teen years. These life experiences have helped shape and develop her as she maintains consistent achievement of the mission of Emily's Place. Lori attended Northwestern State in Natchitoches, LA. Prior to accepting the position at Emily's Place, Lori managed the breast MRS at the Sue A. Demille Center in Plano. Lori is happily married to Mark Conley and together they have two married daughters: Ashley and Steve Hensel (and one granddaughter Clara Rose) and Chrissy and Drew Zadow.

Rosy Kintzinger, Genesis Women's Shelter & Support. She was born and reared in Goa, India, to wonderful parents who prioritized education for all, regardless of gender. They taught her the importance of giving back to the community, even though they had limited financial means – every week, they would clean and prepare their church for worship. With the help of her oldest sister and her husband, Rosy immigrated to the U.S. at 18 and earned her BS in Social Work from Texas Woman's University. Her career at Genesis began as a Case Manager over 20 years ago, but she has since worked her way up to Senior Director of Operations. She enjoys serving her community through her work and helping at her local church. In her free time, she likes to read and garden.

Tulsi Naik, CHETNA. She was raised in Africa, and moved to Toronto when she was 12. She attended the University of Windsor (Canada) and graduated with a BA, majoring in Sociology and minoring in Psychology and Women's Studies. She also has a Post-Graduate Diploma in Social Service Work. In Toronto she worked for a youth program, leading stress-management workshops for youth. She also served as Executive Assistant on the Board of the Zambian Children's Fund Canada (ZCFC), aiding with raising funds for AIDS orphans. She moved to Dallas in 2012 and joined CHETNA in 2016, after working for four years at a childcare center. This is her first time working as a Client Advocate, and she is very grateful to CHETNA for this rewarding opportunity. She has always aspired to advocate for those in need. She recently welcomed her first child, and feels very blessed! Tulsi is also a henna artist, and loves to crochet.

Jeanine Tillman, Allen Community Outreach. She has a passion to empower others to find their purpose. She believes everything and everyone is created to do a great work in the world. Working in the social services arena for over 10 years, She has had the pleasure to work with survivors of domestic violence and abuse, the formerly incarcerated, teen mothers, individuals living with HIV/AIDS and those living with mental health disabilities just to name a few. She has a Bachelors in Psychology and Sociology and a Masters of Professional Counseling. As a two-time author, Jeanine enjoys writing empowering and inspirational literature for women and children.
